TREZI

(Transforming Design Experience)

An Immersive Collaboration Platform for the Building Industry

Trezi advances the understanding, communication and translation of architectural and interior design, as well as the building products used in these designs, for all stakeholders in the design process. This results in reduced errors and costs, faster and better decision making, and ultimately greater business impact and profitability.

Current Problems for Architects and Designers

Ineffective Design

CURRENT CHALLENGES...

- Poor design visualization as static & passive 3D renders/panoramas are ineffective
- Multiple, non-intuitive design tools lacking collaboration
- Multiple design iterations & delays in design finalization
- Poor coordination with other project stakeholders (MEP, product manufacturers, etc.)

LEADING TO...

- Delayed decision making
- Cost overruns
- Errors and omissions in design and construction
- Gaps between what clients expects and what they get

INDUSTRY TRENDS

An Opportunity to Disrupt

“The AEC industry will see more change in the next ten years than most of us have seen in our lifetimes, creating both threats and opportunities.”

Case Study: Paperspace

Design Ideas

The Brief:

Paperspace designers needed new ways to communicate their sophisticated design ideas, since traditional 2D drawings and renderings were not effective.

The Solution:

Deployed the immersive and interactive features of Trezi, allowing for a better understanding of the space being designed.

The Benefits:

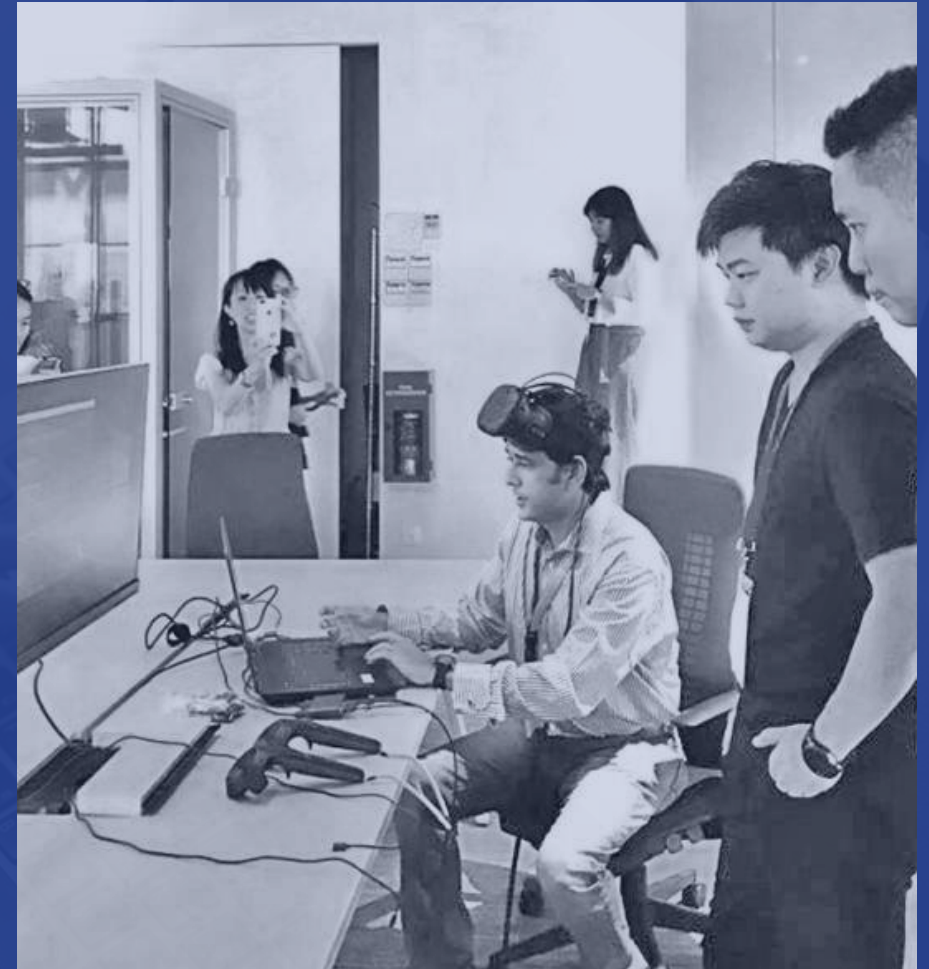

Conveys design intent,
particularly for spatial composition

Matching of client expectations

Experiential learning of design

Case Study: Ground 11

Design Communication

The Brief:

Encourage clients to participate in the design process. And to seek a new language to communicate design intent during a pitch.

The Solution:

Trezi deployed for enhanced design understanding and experience. Client & other project stakeholders invited to experience the design being proposed in an immersive VR walkthrough.

Improved design communication

Differentiated project pitch

Immediate understanding of design proposal

Quick decision by client to award project
